Cnbc fast money recap.

This is an unprecedented growth of 34% in a single year. The relativity also showed that many content creators are balancing their independent work with traditional work, with 46% working on full-time work and 13% working on part-time work. . What is especially interesting is that this sector alone seems to be just starting with another 3.2 million planning of becoming content creators in the next two years. Creative Economy in 2021. This may have a great impact on small businesses that will have to adapt to a new landscape of employment, where many other people have an independent source of income and are less inclined to commit to a job. Traditional 9 to 5 and all this usually implies. It could also present business-to-business with increasing opportunities for the development of innovative beneficial partnerships and innovative work environments. The future of solo-professional entrepreneurs the MBO CEO partners, Miles Everson, said the study findings: "The creative economy validates the tendency that more and more workers are to perceive freedom and more well-being that comes from taking career control in their own hands." Organizations and politicians Base should realize that the work force of the future will be fed by Independent T solo-entrepreneurial professionals, choosing projecting careers in their own terms. ^ Adweek, "Simon Hobbs Leaving CNBC", TV Nekinarer, 2016 ^ Littleton, Cynthia (November 25, 2014).
